Feline Kidney Disease, Its Cause and How You Can Help

9/17/2009 7:08:49 AM

Feline kidney disease is MOST common health conditions seen in cats- and unfortunately there is NO cure.

The most common signs of feline kidney disease include increased drinking, increased urination, but also gastro intestinal signs of nausea, drooling, vomiting, weight loss, muscle wasting, poor hair coat, and progressive more severe illness as the disease progresses.

Signs... Read More

How Congestive Heart Failure in Dogs May be Prevented

9/4/2009 1:53:03 PM

There are a few different reasons for congestive heart failure in dogs. It can be the result of heartworm infection, a congenital deformity or being overweight.

If being overweight is the problem here are some tips for weight reduction:

Head off the obesity before it gets out of control. Make sure he/she gets plenty of exercise two to three times a day beginning as a puppy... Read More

What Do Ticks Look Like?

9/3/2009 10:04:46 AM

Lyme disease is becoming very common. Let's learn about what do ticks look like and which ones can present health problems.

Ticks are arachnids like scorpions, spiders and mites. They are not insects. They have four pairs of legs as adults and have no antennae, whereas adult insects have three pairs of legs and one pair of antennae.

Ticks are very efficient carriers of... Read More

Cure a Dog's Upset Stomach

9/1/2009 12:24:44 PM

One of the most common calls for veterinarian is "How can I cure a dog's upset stomach?"

First you need to check a few things to determine if this is really just an upset stomach, or something more serious. If your answer is yes to any of these go visit your vet.

Is your dog vomiting? If so, is there any blood in the vomit?

Is your dog Dehydrated? Pull a pinch of loose skin... Read More

Have a Happy, Healthy "Best Friend" With Homemade Pet Food

8/31/2009 8:04:22 AM

Dogs and cats have different diet requirements. If you decide to make homemade pet food the differences need to incorporate.

The first key difference is that cats require more protein than dogs and in particular need the amino acids, Arginine and Taurine. Cats are not able to produce these amino acids so you need to make sure that you are providing them in your homemade pet... Read More

Why Every Family Should Have a Pet by Guest Author Jen Cooper

8/28/2009 11:01:44 AM

Millions of families on this planet include at least one non-human member. Whether it is a dog, cat, fish, turtle, rabbit or python, a new pet can very quickly become a much-loved member of the family in its own right.

Many studies have shown that this can only be a good thing - for many reasons. When it comes to teaching children a variety of life lessons, helping to bond... Read More

Why Do Cats Purr?

8/27/2009 10:46:37 AM

For cat lovers, the feeling of a purring cat in our lap or laying next to us is very comforting and can make us feel more calm, but why do cats purr?

Veterinarian Bruce Fogle, who authored "The Cat's Mind," states that the original function of purring was to enable a kitten to communicate with his mother that everything is OK. A kitten is able to purr by the... Read More

Method 1- Pet Adoption:Contact a Purebred Rescue Group

10/24/2007 5:34:11 PM

If you want a purebred dog, the best place for pet adoption are purebred rescue groups that are usually run by people with in-depth knowledge of the particular breed. Rescue groups keep adoptable dogs until they can be placed in loving permanent homes. These animals could have come from failed breeding operations, from boarding kennels and vets... Read More

Greyhounds Need to Adapt to Their New Environment After Adoption

10/22/2007 6:54:49 PM

Greyhounds make great pets, but there are a few things to remember when you adopt one. First remember greyhounds have led a very structured life with very few changes on a day-to-day basis. They need to be familiarized with a different routine to make their transition to a new adopted home less stressful. They have, after all, been in the company... Read More

Calculate the Cost of Pet Care Before You Commit

10/15/2007 10:41:09 AM

There are a number of items to consider in calculating pet upkeep costs. Being a pet owner can be a very rewarding and enjoyable experience, but please consider the responsibility of owning a living creature and the costs. Figure out if your pet is living indoors or outdoors. Dogs use the great outdoors as their potty, but cats need litter and small... Read More
